The screenshot shows the 'euro | topics' website, which is described as 'Europe's press comments'. The navigation bar includes 'DEBATES', 'DOSSIER' (highlighted in red), 'MEDIA', 'EN' with a dropdown arrow, and a search bar.

The main content area features a grid of topic cards, each with a representative image, a title, and a 'Debates' count:

- Brexit: 40 Debates
- War in Syria: 24 Debates
- Rise of the right: 18 Debates
- Judicial reform in Romania
- Germany after the elections
- The US under Trump
- Trump's new nuclear strategy
- Macedonia dispute: Greek protests gain force
- Anastasiades remains Cyprus's head of state

Below the topic cards, there are three columns of media source links, each with a flag icon, the source name, and a headline:

- LE TEMPS (CH): US mixing an explosive cocktail
- THE ECONOMIST (GB): New weapons make nuclear war less likely
- DENNIK N (SK): Trump adapting to Russia's strategy
- FRANKFURTER ALLGEMEINE ZEITUNG (DE): Kremlin will be delighted if compromise fails
- DEFEND DEMOCRACY (GR): Demonstrators suspect treason
- FOKUS (MK): False patriots need a good slap in the face
- CYPRUS MAIL (CY): Decision time for Anastasiades
- HÜRRİYET DAILY NEWS (TR): High time to work on a two state solution
- SIMERINI (CY): The people must take fate into their hands
