

universität freiburg

Racializing Terrorism

A public lecture by Verena Erlenbusch-Anderson
(University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign)

26.6.2024, 18-20 Uhr

Haus „Zur Lieben Hand“, Großer Saal

This talk explores the racialization of terrorism in the United States in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries through changing discursive formations of race. I illuminate its function as a tool of social exclusion in the service of white supremacy and examine the continued relevance of contestations of terrorism as a means to preserve white rule and a practice of resistance against white supremacy.

Veranstaltet von der Professur für
Epistemology and Theory of Science

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE
FREIBURG